M. Louis 6, Columbus 3. Boston 12, Athletic 3. The first thing which struck the baseball enthusiast's we when he glowered over the official score-card at the folo Grounds yesterday was this bold and wild and woolly Western scream in big black type:

"Hurst is a good umpire."

"Hurst is a good umpire."

This official declaration caused a broad grin to sweep yer the grand-stand and many anxious inquiries were made for the poor, confiding young man who peaned those lines. It must have been Umpire Hurst himself who gave out that startling bit of official information.

Hurst is about the worst umpire seen at the Polo Grounds this season, and 99 out of every 100 persons at the game yesterday will probably bear out this assertion. The little fellow undoubtedly tries to do right, but he apparently does not know how. While his erratic work was not the sole reason for New-York's defeat, his decisions certainly did not assist the local club. In two doubtful plays yesterday the Philadelphia team received the benefit of both. Most of the spectators differed with Hurst in both 2205.

and over. This kept the attendance down to about of the Philadelphia men. The Glants could not gauge the curves of that clever little pitcher, Gleason, and, as is generally the case when not batting, the Glants played rather listiesely in the field. Whistler cannot cover an infeld position, if first base is excepted. He was tried as their days. Clarke is a better man for the position. Ruske pitched only a fair game, he not showing the terrific speed in his delivery which generally characterizes his work. Richardson, as usual, played a splendid game, and he was about the only New-Yorker who did. O'Rourke ought to be provided with a bicycle.

GAMES IN OTHER CITIES. Philadelphia, June 20.—The Athletics were easily defeated by Boston this afternoon. In the second inning Chamberlain, who was playing right field, failed to get up to Brown's fly-a ball that would have been taken by any ordinary fielder—and then the visitors developed a batting streak, knocking out seven hits and scoring five runs, after chances had been offered to retire the side. Chambertain succeeded Sanders in the third and nitched out the game in good style. A marvellous one-handed catch by Wood and a great running catch by Corkbill were the features of the game. THE ALTON BOYCGTT.

PRESSURE BROUGHT TO BEAR TO HAVE IT BAISED.

Chicago, June 20 (Special),-"The Journal" says that it is safe to predict that before saturday of next week the boycott against the Alton road will have been called off. A strong pressure is being brought to bear; reports indicate that certain trunk line agents in the East have already, under official instructions, resumed the sale of Alton tickets, and Chairman Highhard has gone to New-York to attend to this matter. In hopes of strengthening their position and possibly making the boycott effective by extending it beyond joint trunk line and central traffic territory, the board of rulings had a resolution offered at the transcontinental meeting yesterday to the effect that the transcontinental lines uphold their order of last December for the abolishment of the payment of commissions. But the fact very soon became known that there was not a unanimity of feeling. When put to a vote the resolution was defeated,

That there is more significance in the attempt to have an indorsement of the move to do away with ommissions by the transcontinental roads than at first appears is freely admitted. It shows that the powers New York are being influenced either by the Trunk line presidents or the board of ralings. The fact that any road voted for the resolution, however, is no any road voted for the general passenger agents favored it. The argument indulged in proved that very few of them believe commissions are not a good thing.

AN PRITOR CHARGED WITH CONTEMPT OF COURT. Prechold, N. J., June 20 (Special).-The courtroom was crowded this morning when Frank M. Taylor, jr. the proprietor and Editor of "The Long Branch Record," came to the bar to answer to a charge of contempt of court. Taylor published last week an article reflecting upon Judge J. Clarence Conover, and said that he had prostituted his office in the interests of Governor Abbett. Judge Conover himself presided. Judge McCarter, for the defendant, in a speech to the court, said that he had practised law for fortyive years, and it was the first time he had ever been employed in a case where the court, in order vindicate its own dignity, had instituted proceedngs of this kind. He said that Mr. Taylor and his lawyers had not seen a copy of the affidavit, and on behalf of his client he asked for time to prepare his line of action. Judge Conover then postponed the case until Tuesday, July 7.

DETAILS OF THE ATTEMPTED MEDIATION-

MINISTER EGAN'S TACT. Washington, June 20.-A private letter received rom Santiago under date of May 14 contains much nteresting information concerning affairs in Chili, of which the following is an abstract:

"Through the clever intervention of Mr. Egan, the United States Minister, a conference had been brought about between the Government and the revolutionists which might have resulted in the end of the war but for an unfortunate episode which occurred yesterday evening, whereby the lives of the Minister of the Interior and several other distinguished men of the Government were jeopardized. This has opened the wounds which the salve of good council was trying to heal, and there is no telling when the war will end.

"The members of the Government declared that no proposition for peace would be entertained that did not come from a committee of which the United States should be a party. This arose largely from a feeling of personal regard and confidence in Mr. Egan. He has throughout acted with consummate act, keeping up a friendly relation with the Balmaceda party, while at the same time he has afforded an asylum to certain prominent revolutionists.

"The English and German Ministers tried to be secret mediators between the beiligerents, but the Government at Santiago declined to accept the offices of the European Ministers, and declared its intention to treat only through the repr bree great republics of the world-France, Brazil and the United States. When this decision was reached Mr. Egan obtained 'safe conducts' for the revolutionary leaders, who were in hiding, and organized a conference to formulate and discuss propositions of peace. The first propositions were presented by the revoluionists, who asked to have the constitution restored and to let all who would come back. there was simply a proposition that Palmaceda should accept their interpretation of the constitution, which

At 5 o'clock the ediators were to meet the President again. At that hour they found the passages and court-yards crowded, and everything in utter confusion. Minister Goday was white with rage and trembling with agitation. Two roughly dressed men, with horses, as the Minister and his party approached, had thrown a bomb at him and ridden away at full speed. Noody was hurt, but everybody was greatly frightened. The President refused all further attempts at peace, on the ground that the revolutionists were involved in the conspiracy. Mr. Egan and his fellow-mediators knew that this was untrue, but learning that the President had ordered the arrest of the revolutionary leaders, regardless of their 'safe conducts,' at once extended their personal protection to them, and aforded them shelter and asylum in their respective legations. A STORY OF BARRY SULLIVAN.

From The Theatre.

During our Manchester experiences Sullivan gave himself no trage airs, and had a happy knack of saying smart thinks. One ovening as we lounged into the Theatre Royal Tavern together an emineat idiot was monopolizing the conversation, and his theme was the bard (it always was), he had the bard on the brain- or would have had, had he possessed one.

"Ha, Mr, Sullivan," exclaimed the bore, in triumph, "the very man we want! You can set us right on the subject."

"What subject."

"What subject is inquired Barry.

"Mrs. Siddon's reading in Lady Maebeth, Was she right or wrong! Should it be 'We fail!' or 'We fail!' what is your opinion, sir?"

"Can't possibly express an opinion on the subject."

"Why not, sir? Why not!" From The Theatre.

"Why not, sir? Why not!"
"Because I never have falled, and never mean to fail! fail?"

Perinaps it cannot be truly affirmed that Sullivan never failed, but he had a buildog-like tenacity of purpase which never admitted he was beaten.

GENTLEMEN: It gives me sincere pleasure to tell you how much surprised and delighted I am with the Æolian.

To be able to produce a Beethoven Symphony or a scene from a Wagnerian opera, or a Strauss valse, without musical knowledge or skill, for this we thank your wonderful invention. It differs greatly from all other automatic instruments; first, in the admirable quality of its tone, and furthermore, in allowing the player to regulate to his individual taste the time, as well as he different shades of sound, Your complete and well selected catalogue; con taining the best works of our classic and modern masters of all schools, will prove itself another Accept, gentlemen, the sincere congratulations Yours very truly, BRUNO OSCAR KLEIN.

A visit to our warerooms will be esteemed a favor.
